What is this festival all about?

“Trumbauer,” as it’s affectionately known, is an annual Alabama secondary theatre festival, one of the largest such events in the southeast region. Now in its 70th year, the festival is named after Walter Trumbauer, a former theatre professor at The University of Montevallo who inspired and taught students in the field of speech and theatre for many years. “Trumbauer” celebrates the high school theatre experience. Students from 9th through 12th grades compete in 28 individual performance and/or technical theatre events (called IE’s). Their school may also compete with a one-act play or studio theatre piece. Students first compete in one of six district festivals. This year, over 1500 secondary students competed at the district level with over 750 advancing to State. The One-Act Play Festival is a Trumbauer highlight. Two one acts will advance from State to represent Alabama at the regional secondary competition during the Southeastern Theatre Conference in March, 2012 in Chattanooga, TN. It’s considered bad luck to wish a performer “good luck” so in the timeless theatrical tradition, ACT wishes everyone involved a hearty “Break a Leg!!”

Stephen Gregg is the recipient of a Jerome Fellowship from the Playwrights' Center of Minneapolis; Actors Theatre of Louisville's Heideman Award for best 10-minute play; and the International Thespian Society's Founders' Award for service to youth and theatre. He was the founding dramaturge of the Thespian Playworks student playwriting program, and This is a Test has been on the Thespian Society's annual list of most-produced short plays for more than 20 years. Gregg is a member of The Dramatists Guild, the Writers Guild of America, West, and the Lab Twenty6 writers' group. He writes the Playwright Now blog for the Educational Theatre Association @ www.schooltheatre.org.

Join Contemporary and Hip-Hop Dance sensations, and Live to Dance Semi-finalists, Jill Wilson & Jacob Jonas as they headline our dance and movement workshops this year. Both from California, Jill and Jacob will be offering a variety of dance workshops for everyone, including a Hip Hop/Street Dance workshop just for the guys!

New York Conservatory for the Dramatic Arts' Anthony Reimer returns this year! With a long list of off-Broadway, film and television credits, Anthony brings his energetic and humorous approach to performance and improvisation to the festival! An expert in both film and stage, Anthony has lots to share with our Alabama Thespians!

Author and arts educator Jonas Basom is a national presenter in arts & literacy for schools, organizations, and education conferences. His hands-on workshops train teachers how to use drama in all school subjects to create optimal learning environments. Jonas has created curriculum products such as The Drama Game File that are used by teachers, school districts, and universities nationwide. For his teaching excellence, leadership, and innovation, Jonas was awarded the 2003 Bravo Award for Outstanding Arts Educator of Southern California.

Fulton Burns is the Director of Acting & Performance at the University of South Alabama. Burns is a Certified Teacher with the Society of American Fight Directors (SAFD). Burns is an award-winning Advanced Actor Combatant recognized in all eight weapons that the organization has to offer. He's also an Instructor with the Dueling Arts International (DAI) making USA one of only 10 schools in the United States to offer Certificate Tests in both organizations (SAFD & DAI).

Room assignments and competition times are subject to change. Be sure to check the Call Board near the Registration Desk for last minute updates!
